

THE ARTIST AT REST

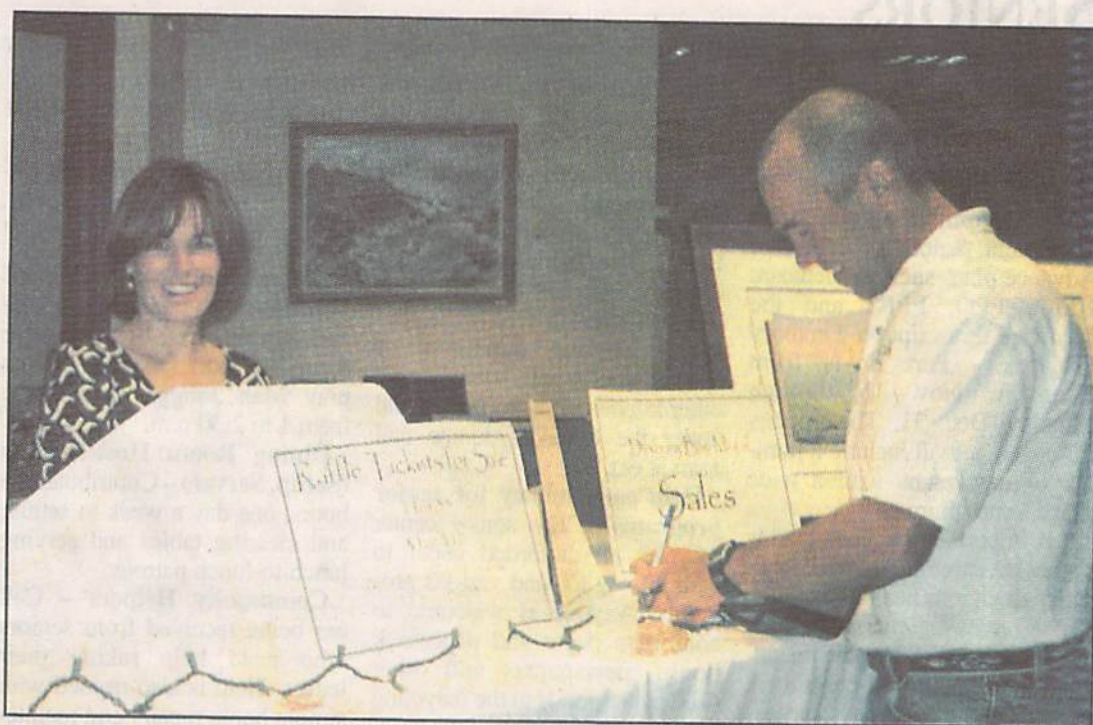

Anna Conway, who created the mural that graces the library is joined with her sisters, Aileen and Sonya as well as her father Dr. Maurice Conway at Library's 10th Anniversary celebration Saturday. More photos on Page 12.

PHOTO COURTESY KATHY ULLATHORNE

Artists Anna Conway and John Hodany sign the Duxbury Bay Mural Prints during the peak of Hurricane Noel on Saturday afternoon at the library. Anna traveled from New York City and John from Berlin to attend the evening's festivities.

Friends Board Member Chris Coakley welcomes a guest at the mural raffle table.

Anna Conway discusses the historical facts and whimsical illustrations of the Duxbury Bay Mural to guests.

Library Staff Marty O'Meara of the Children's Department and Rose Hickey of Technical Services celebrate and reflect on their years at the library.

By the book

Despite the winds and rain of Noel, which knocked out electricity during the afternoon, friends and family of the Duxbury Free Library gathered Saturday to celebrate its 10th anniversary at the current location. Fortunately for all, power was restored with only an hour to spare.

Photos Courtesy of Kathy Ullathorne